If your highness will recall to mind the fact that this agitation has been extending some years and has met with response from all educational establishments of this country, you will scarcely share this opinion. The sources of this agitation are to be found in an intolerable position in which the youth of Russia are to be placed. Sudents outside of the college walls are subjected to police supervision while inside, and are constantly more and more deprived of their rights. They have had taken from them the right of meeting to consider heir own affairs, and have been forbidden to establish a fund for mutual aid. In attempting anything of this kind they are threatened with prosecutions in the most odious form by the police administration. vague sort of way that they are interested in the manipulations which the wild lands of the state undergo, from time to time, and more than once a disposition has been shown to draw aside the curtains and look in upon

AN UNKNOWN QUANTITY.

The correct amount of these lands never been accurately ascertained. If, at any time, a full and true return of the improved lands had been made to the state, the number of acres of alleged wild lands could have been approximated. A certain proportion of them are known through the efforts of tax receivers, who report to the comptroller-general so many acres of wild land in a given county as unreturned for taxes, but these returns are not reliable for data upon which to base a calculation intended to cover the aggregate wild land area in the state. Errors and omissions innumerable occur in these returns, and it would be only by the tedious and almost endless process of abstracting the tax digests and mapping from the records of the surveyor-general in the secretary of the state's office every lot of land in every county of the state that is not ascertained and returned as improved land. Even that record, so laboriously made, would be imperfect, from the fact that much improved land often fails to find its way to the tax digests and much that is really improved mysteriously gets itself included in the wild land returns.

Something over a year ago the comptroller-general startled the state with an advertisement embracing the numbers only of wild land lots that were in default, the advertisement embracing the numbers only of wild land lots that were in default, the advertisement embracing the numbers only of wild land lots that were in default, the length of those of The Constitutions. THE ACREAGE BETURNED.

The report of the comptroller-general for 1876 showed that for that year 7,033,447 acres of wild lands were returned at an average value of 26 cents per acre.

In 1877 there were returned 6,533,710 acres at an average value of 26 cents per acre. The decrease in acres for 1877 was 499,737.

In 1878 the number of acres returned was 7,582,323; the average value per acre, 22 cents; increase of acres for 1878 was 1,048,-613.

lation and who do not believe the law permits the transfer of fi. fas. for taxes upon wild lands, and another class of larger holders and speculators who have become the transferrees of large numbers of fi. fas. and who have given the people great trouble in seeking to enforce the executions; and hence a howl of complaint.

comptroller-general golden and readily yielded to the process of interviewing.

In reply to our first questions he gave us the following outline of the wild land legislation of the state:

"In 1866 the first wild land law of this state was passed. It was almost identical with the present law. The then comptroller-general, Madison Bell, seeing its defects, tried to have it corrected by the legislature, but without any results. The first year that I came into office I also discovered the defects in this law, and tried to have it changed. The legislature passed a law in 1873 requiring these lands to be given in to the tax receivers where they were located or to the ordinaries of the counties where the owners lived. This law was tried obly one year. So great was the confusion under it that in 1874 the legislature returned to the law of 1868, which is now known as the act of 1874, and under which these difficulties have arisen. I tried from 1874 until 1877 to have the law so amended as to avoid these troubles, but without success. I then according to law and proceeded to collect the taxes. Knowing of the many mistakes and the great difficulties in the way, I did all I could to obviate any further trouble. Many of these fi fas were transfer-red to parties, as provided in section 891 of the code."

"What is that section?"

"It is found in the code and reads as fol-lows:

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OPINION.

"2nd. Whether section 891 of the code will cover fi. fas. issued by the comptroller-general for faxes on unreturned wild lands?

"That section is very broad, applying to every execution issued for state, county or municipal taxes, or any other execution is sued without the judgment of a court, under any law, provided that the officer whose duty it is to enforce the same, shall upon the request of the party so paying the same, transfer said execution, ect.

"No reason occars why this section should not embrace tax fi. fax."

We then asked Colonel Goldsmith whether there were not a good many of these fi. fax. sent out to the sheriffs directly from his office?

"Certainly. All the fi. fax that are not

"Then, it is the owner's duty to return the lands and pay the taxes once every twelve month, and if he did this none of his lands could be sold, or if neglected once and they were sold, he would have opportunity for redemption?"

"Yes, sir."

"It is reported that a great many improvedlands have been sold under tax fi. fas. from your office?"

"That is true, but in every instance they were reported to me as being wild lands in default by the tax receivers. They were mistakes, either of the owners or the tax-receivers may refer to verify their returns?"

"Is there no record to which 'tax-receivers may refer to verify their returns?"

"Certainly. I spent over $750 for maps for the tax-receivers of the counties that they might get the list of wild lands correct. They ought to be able to do so with very little trouble."

"Have any of the complaints about these transfers been made to you personally?"

"Not directly, but, as I have said in my report, I have been blamed for the execution of the law, but in that I had no discretion. The law and the opinion of the attorney-general controlled my action."

"After a transfer of a fi. a does the transferee have any further relations in the matter with your-office?"

"Non eat all. They pay the taxes and take the fi. fa. Their subsequent transactions are with the sheriffs and tax officers of the counties."

The comptroller-general then called our attention to the following extracts from his latest report to the governor:

INVITING THE ATTEXTION OF THE SOLONS.

"I respectfully all you attention to my report submitted to your excellency on the first of January and to the recommendations therein the attention of the legislature at its ensuing session.

"In this connection it is proper to remark that, in some parts of the state, I have been censured for the manner in which the wild land law has been executed. Errors and mistakes have occurred and inconvenienced many citizens. Some good people blame me for these disagreeable troubles. The transfer of wild land if fas under section 891 of the code of 1873 has been regarded by some as unwarranted by law. In view of the above, I earnestly request the legislature to appoint a committee to look into this matter and ascertain if the wild land law has been correctly and faithfully executed by me, and whether I am to blame for the errors and mistakes which have been executed."

These statements went before the general assembly but they proposed and perfected

No corrective Legislation.

The result is that the law remains as heretofore, and it will be the duty of the comptroller-general to proceed again as he has heretofore. If errors and difficulties have occurred in the past, they are well nigh sure to re-appear whenever the new fi. fas.
issue from this office. It is the business of the legislature to make the needed changes in the law, and without action upon their part, or an order from the governor suspending the collection of the tax, affairs in this line will go on getting worse, and the complaints of the people will be doubled at every new emission of wild land executions.

The legislature did appoint a committee on wild lands, of which Representative McWhorter, of Greene, was chairman. The committee of twenty-three appointed a subcommittee of twelve, composed of its best material, to investigate the doings of the comptroller general's office in connection with these fi. fas. They did so and reported, the essence of the report being in these words:

Your committee, not being satisfied with the information to be obtained in the comptroller-general's and the wild land office, have had before them several of the transferees of those fi. fas., besides other witnesses entirely exonerates the comptroller-general and will land clerk from even the suspicion of fraud upon their part, They was, in the execution of this law, had to contend with the difficulties which were unsurmountable, and with which none of their predecessors have had to contend, and the fidelity with which Immediately upon the making of the report the comptroller-general demanded by circular of all sheriffs that they observe his order forbidding further sales and that they make at once a full return of all sales made by them.

DISABLED TAX-RECEIVERS.

From gentlemen who are conversant with the tax-business of the several counties of the state it is ascertained that probably in a majority of the counties the office of tax-receiver is considered a charity, to be bestowed upon aged, infirm, or crippled men; men who have lost an arm or a leg and to whom their fellow-citizens feel disposed to give an easy money-making berth. Whenever this is done there are large chances that the interests of the county and state will ever this is done there are large chances that the interests of the county and state will not be rigorously looked after. It requires good work to secure a proper return of taxable property and some of the evils under which we labor are traceable to the fact that men of "git up and git" are not set about the business.

COLLUSION AND FRAUD.

The complaints made all over the state, and which have become painfully plentiful, are of various hues. The people, whether rightly or not, are convinced that a huge fraud is being perpetrated upon them and the state in many ways. They are growing very restive, and it may be possible that an organized effort will finally be made to upset and nullify proceedings which have about them the semblance, if not the prominent badge of fraud. The report of the legislative committee says: "Officers, whose duty it was to execute them, have either ignorantly or intentionally allowed the transferees to pervert the law, and by this means to rob the state of thousands of money, and her citizens of hundreds of thousands of acres of land." If fi. fas. have been so manipulated, outside of the law, as to result in the deception and spoliation of the people, and these practices have been general, we may yet find in Georgia a way and a means to establish the fraud and vitiate the proceedings COLLUSION AND PRAUD.

made are as various as the hues of the chameleon, and change their color with the coming of each new complaint. For instance, in his circular to sheriffs of December 14th, the comptroler-general says:

The wild land committee of the house of representatives complained that excessive cost had been charged and collected by sheriffs in some counties, and that a different and greater cost collected from defendants in f. fa. from that charged by newspapers for advertising: also, that excess of sale has been turned over to transferrees prior to order of 28th February, 1878, from this office, simply on their giving boud for forthcoming of said money if a better owner claimed said fund. No one but the true owner was entitled to said money if a better owner claimed said fund. No one but the true owner or collected excess, and if you have paid such excess to any one other than the true owner or collected excessive cost, or a different amount of cost from defendant in f. fa. to that charged by the advertising paper, then, in either of all these cases, you and your securities would be liable for the abuse.

The committee in its report uses the following language:

We are fully satisfied, from the meagre investigations made by the committee, that the extraor-of these fs. Isas are appalling, and we believe that the special joint committee of the two houses, if time sufficient be allowed them, can fully protect the state and her citizens from the frauds practiced upon them.

CINCINNATI, December 23.—Venerable Archbishop Purcell, who has had charge of the Catholic interests in this city for over fifty-five years, announced to the cathedral congregation that he had written to the pope asking to be relieved on account of infirmities and old age. In his remarks he alluded to financial matters and evidently convinced his hearers that no fears need to be felt as to the investments made through him as they were secure and would be returned in due time.

The children's Carmival.

The children's Carmival at the governor's mansion Thursday night will be one of the most beautiful entertainments ever, given in Atlanta. Hosts of children, in the most attractive attire, will take part in the programme. Mrs. Desson, who did so much for the success of the "mistletce bough" last year, has a leading part in the management of this entertainment. When the ladies of Atlanta put forth their energies, as they are now doing in this effort, we may clock for a full and decided success. Secure tickets at once.

boot and shoe industries of Massachusetts. In cottons: one owner interested in six coperations says that all the mills are busy, and are doing a fair business. These mills turn out literally hundreds of miles of cotton fabrics every day, which find a market in all parts of the world. A Lowell corporation recently had an order of 2,500 bales for the African market, and a lively and growing trade is springing up in Japan and China. The capitalists engaged in the manufacture of cotton goods are confident that specie resumption will help their business, and in time give a fresh impetus to manufacturing, but not like that unhealthy growth which preceded the panic, The product of the boot and shoe industry the past year has been as large as any year since the panic, and greater than one or two of the intervening. The orders for winter goods were large and liberal and the orders for spring goods are coming in rapidly.

The Outlook for 1880.

The Outlook for 1880.

nuel Bowles, Jun., in the Springfield Repullion Promptly sensing the improved outlook, th leading republican candidates are quick to ente the lists and so soon are industriously working ut the field, directly or through their friends. Thes candidates are Blaine, Grant and Conkling, and the comparative, prominence and strength as the field, directly or through their friends. These candidates are Blaine, Grant and Coukling, and their comparative prominence and strength at this time from the Washington stand-point correspond in the order in which I have named them. But after all it is the dark horse that whis in these presidential contests, the unknown quantity which ultimately comes to the front. In contradiction of all the present signs the prize of the nomination is more likely than not to full to some one in the background, like Washburne, of Illinois, Joe Hawley or John Sherman. If so good a man as Hawley or Washburne, he will be elected, unless the democratis go back on their record and put forward their cleanest and strongest team. The key to the situation really lies in the hands of the democratis if they are only sharp enough to recognize it and courageous enough to use their opportunity. There is one man whom they can certainly elect president beyond the power of any returning-board to count out. That man is Senator Bayard, of Delaware, whose strength is not simply negative, but positive, whose course as a public man will bear the most searching scrutiny and who has knowledge, culture and convictions which he is not afraid to assert. He is the only man at all prominent in the party who would draw the bulk of the independent vote of the country and under certain, likely conditions heavily encroach upon the straight republican support itself. That he could be nominated by a concerted and courageous effort on the part of the narty leaders seems highly probable. Everypyericself. That he could be nominated by a concerted and courageous effort on the part of the party leaders seems highly probable. Everywhere I find his name well received. The southten chiefs, Lunar, Hill, Gordon, would be only too thankful to have him chosen as the party standard-bearer, and say that the south would justify the appellation "solid" in his support.
Doubtless the soft-tonocy democrats of the west would shudder at the thought of electing so steadfast and consistent an advocate of sound monetary principles. But the irredeemable currency issue is likely to be essentially eliminated from the next presidential campaign, and Bayard's candidacy would have the merit of unities the conflicting western interests on an outside ard's candidacy would have the merit of uniting the conflicting western interests on an outside and independent man. At this time, however there seems small chance that the democrats will rise to the opportunity that is presented to them They say we should all be glad to have Bayard four candidate, but fear he could not be nominated. More likely it is that some trimming politican, like Hendricks or Thurman, will be the party choice. To-day the Ohio senator is unquestionably the most prominent and promising can lonably the most prominent and promising ca lidate, notwithstanding newspaper reports to to contrary. Tilden is considered by every bo whose opinions are worth reporting as quite of OBITUARY.

A Startling Story from Indiana.

Washington Special to Cincinnati Enquirer.

A report has reached here from Indiana to the effect that the Indiana nationals have formed a combination with the republicans, whereby the Rev. De La Matyr, congressman-elect from that state, is to be set to the United States senate instead of Voorhees. The terms of the bargain are further said to include the organization of the state senate by the nationals, and the election of a republican to congress to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of De La Matyr. This bargain would give the republicans control of the delegation and prevent the proposed reapportionment of the state. The story of this bargain, however, is discredited at the national head-quarters here. Chairman Dewees, of the national executive committee, has not heard of it; and Colonel Lee Crandall, his secretary, says: "Tam in constant correspondence with Mr. De La Matyr, and if such a thing is contemplated I have not heard a word of it. Nor do I believe it, for I know Mr. De La Matyr, and he is nota trading man. I do not think either he would give up his seat in the house. He was elected as a national, he will come as a national, and he will vote as a national. No, Idon't believe a word of it. It is more likely that Mr. De La Matyr is working to secure the election of James Buchanan to succeed Voorhees. Buchanan is his warm friend, and he would like to see him elected." A Startling Story from Indiana.

The Leaders Casting About in 1880

Washington Dispatch to N. Y. Herald. The leaders of each party are easting about for a policy for 1880, and it is us to policies and not concerning men that they are consulting. Candi dates will depend on platforms, and neither party will have, it is well understood, a large latitude in selecting its ticket. The western democrats speak of Thurman—the eastern of Bayard. The southern democrats are for the present silent, but all are notited in declaring against Mr. Tilden as utterly unavailable and out of the question. He had his chance and flung it away, they say, and he can have no further pretensions. Few democratic dark horses are named, though one hears occasionally of General Hancock. On the republican side, General Grant undoubtedly looms up more and more. The president is reported to have said to a friend that Grant seemed to him most probable because the prominent rivals, Senators Blahe and Conkling, would be able to defeat each other, and, he shrewdry added, the republican politicians are not likely to risk a dark horse again very soon.

Georgia's New Bond.

Washington Special to St. Louis Republican.
There is some amusement over a financial measure which has passed the Georgia legislature. The legislature has authorized the issue of half a million dollars of bonds, bearing four per cent. Interest. The bonds will be issued in denominations of $5 each, and will be exactly the size of a greenback bill. Each bond will have six coupons, to be clipped annually. They will be largely used as currency, and will furnish a safe interest-bearing investment to the people, and will be issued in January. It is proposed to substitute four per cents for the whole of Georgia's debts, this half million being issued to take up bonds which mature in February. As these obligations have coupons attached, they are not in conflict with the provisions of the law against the issuance of money by states. Georgians say that the plan will ney by states. Georgians say that the plan wi seeed, and make money pleuty.

Toombs on the Presidency.

Special Telegram to Chicago Inter-Ocean.

General Robert Toombs, of Georgia, being asked to-day by your correspondent about Grant for next president, replied: "Well, if by the docree of the Almighty we are not to be free for four years more from radical power, then I should say, give us a full lion, not a sneaking sheep. Grant is a lion. I have respect for the man, for he either kills or wins. I have never forgotten ow gracefully he treated Lee and our soldiers at the surrender. Grant is better for the south, lion though he is, than is a sheep who tries to make a lion of himself." As to the democratic candidates, General Toombs refused to commit himself.

Georgia's Superior Economy.

Boston Herald.

The general appropriation bill just passed by the Georgia legislature provides $4,000 annually for the governor, and $4 a day (the session lasting a littler over a month) and 10 cents per mile mileage for members of the legislature, except that the presiding officer in each branch is allowed $7. Here the most earnest economists are willing to pay our legislators twice as much as Georgia pays, and are met by the cry that $300 is too little.

Why the Independents-elect Go to Washington, Washington Special to Chicago Tribune.

manington special to Chicago Tribune.

The independents from the south who have been elected to the next congress are very much courted here. Both parties are trying to make much of them; and it is fair to say that these inlependents seem to enjoy it, and will try to leave heir position equivocal as long as it will be of advantage to them.

The great need of Mr. Blaine is not that b

—The Atlanta Republican says Mr. Stephens is an independent. This is undoubtedly true. He is independent of the republican party.

—Macon is in great trouble over her municipal election. Why not put the whole matter in the hands of Mayor Huff? He would settle it in two minutes and a half.

—Cochran has had a cutting affray about the size of John Gorman's Florida orange orchard. That is to say one than threatened to stab another with a damp tooth-pick.

—The improvements on the Ocmulgee river are still progressing. The same may also be said of the improvements on the Oconec. The party on the latter stream is under the supervision of Mr. Mike C. Singleton, whose map of Ofekenokee swamp has attracted attention in the geological bureau.

Significant was a special even for it. The commission is somewhat similar somes; that doll-bables are all girls. This shows a degree of wisdom on the part of Richards and brings it to bear in favor of fairness and justice. —Cuthbert Appeal: Richard Lewis, colored, was brutally murdered near Arlington, in Calhoun county, last Friday night. He was carried into a swamp by masked men and horribly mangled. We hope the perpetra ors of this outrage will be brought to justice and made to feel the penalty of an outraged law and a civil community. We know not the offense charged against this negro, but protest against mob-law under any form or pretext. If the laws of the land are inadequate to punish the guilty management.

The commission rather prevents than cures; like a good lightning rod, it silently discharges the electricity, and there is no stroke and no thunder.

THE RAILROAD PROBLEM. Its Partial and Provisional Solution The best solution yet suggested, after a half century's experience, is a railroad commission. A solution in America is more imperatively demanded than in Europe because fluctuations and discriminations here have been much wilder than would be at all tolerated there; as much more as the gambols of a calf compared to the sober demeanor of an ox. So far, the railroad commission is the best known means of regulation.

The Future Prospects of the College—The Studias North Georgia of the College—The Studias Rot to be Interrupted—The Rebuilding to Commence at Once—The Lapsed Pire Policy—A Generous Offer From Gainavillé.

The recent burning of the North Georgia agricultural college is justly considered a misfortune to the whole state. It affects northeast Georgia as a peculiar calamity, Full accounts of the burning which come from Dahlonega state that the destruction was almost total, and that the remains of the well equipped institution are blackened walls and smouldering ruins. There were three hundred students attending the college. It was doing a wonderful work in a section of the state where the people appreciate keenly every educational advantage. The curriculum was so arranged as to give students as asisfactory education in the politer branch-est of learning, while it insured a thorough training in the practical portions of. study. Students from all over Georgia wengsthere. Boys from the mountains, who never heard of a college two years ago, sent there by the close economy of kind parents, worked with admirable energy to improve the golden moments of life. The faculty is composed of able and faithful men under the supervision of Colonel David W. Lewis, those devotion to the college has been second to that of none. it would have crushed a less thrifty institution. We are glad to see that the faculty of the college have preserved their pluck in pite of disaster. They have out a circular stating that the collegiate exercises will be continued and that new students may enter on the first of January and receive every care which has hitherto been bestowed on pupils. The exercises will be conducted in the court-house, the academy and other buildings in the town. The work of rebuilding will, we learn, be commenced at once. Large and appropriate buildings will be erected as soon as the means are obtained. The state cannot afford to let the

As to whether the policy for $20,000 on the old buildings, taken out two years ago, was allowed to lapse or not is not yet stated. It is supposed that there will be a considerable recovery for the loss. At any rate, the life and future prosperity of the college are safe. It will continue its great work to the honor of the state. We learn that the mayor and council of Gainesville have made a VERY GENEROUS OFFER o the trustees of the North Georgia agricu to the trustees of the North Georgia agricultural college. Appreciating their need of buildings, they tender for the use of the college the large academy in Gainesville until the new building may be completed in Dahlonega. Whether or not this generosity will be accepted, it is an evidence of the kindly feeling of the people of Gainesville.

Several of the students of the burnt college were in the city yesterday. They all speak in hopeful terms of the future of the institution and seem to be very much attached to it.

The thieves seem to have goods carried off. The threves seem to have made an entrance by breaking out one of the glasses in a front window. The exit was made by way of the back door, which was unbolted. The goods extracted were three barrels of whisky, three barrels of of cigars. The thieves, to have carried of of cigars. The thieves, to have carried off this largefquantity of goods, must have had a large wagon. The burglary was well planned and executed with considerable skill. Mr. Morris's store is located adjoining his wagon yard, and the thieves must have carried the goods right through the yard to get to the street. The value of the goods is about five hundred dellars. No class is known that will lead to the arrest of the

To-day reserved seats are on sale at Phillips & Crew's for Milton Nobles, who will open at the opera-house in a new play called "A Man of the People," in which Nobles is making a decided hit. Tuesday night he will produce "The Phomix," one of the most exciting plays ever seen on the American stage. In Charleston full houses witnessed both performances. Richardson's Prospects.

Richardson says some of Collinf's near relatives and best friends are supporting him. That is just what we have believed from the day of his announcement.

Now, Professor, do you not see why several of Collins's kin can afford to encourage you and even vote for you as they no doubt will do to keep their promise to you. They see a good thing in the arrangement, but it is all for Collins—all for Collins.

Public speakers are often annoyed, and even seriously afflicted with an affection of the throat, which greatly hinders their efforts to entertain and instruct their hearers. A slight cold adds to the difficulty, and sometimes results disastrously unless efficient means be used to prevent. Every one knows the healing virtues of honey and tar, which are found in all their strength and purity in the greatest Cough Medicine ever prepared. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs is found in Coussens' Compound Honey of Tar, which, together with the golden treasure of the bee, contains the resinous balm yielded by the pine, combined with other materials as simple and efficient. Remember Coussens' Compound Honey of Tar will cure your cough. Price 50 cents a Bottle. For sale by Collier & Co.; at wholesale by Hunt, Rankin & Lamar.
